

Adaptation Concentration

Hibernation	Defense
Locomotion	Migration
Mimicry	Camouflage
An adaptation that allows an organism to blend into its surroundings.	An adaptation that allows an animal to run, jump, or fly away from a predator.
An adaptation where an animal rests or sleeps through a cold winter.	An adaptation an animal has that allows it to protect itself from predators such as the use of venom or it's skin.
The movement of an animal from one place to another for the winter.	When one living thing imitates another living thing in color or shape.